

THE TERRACE

AT THE HEADLAND

HIGH TIME FOR TEA

Bite into Cornish tradition and order afternoon tea at The Headland. Sip local blends of tea, or freshly ground coffee, served with homemade scones, Boddington's strawberry jam and Cornish clotted cream. Feast on a full high tea spread with fancy cakes and finger sandwiches, add a little more sparkle to the occasion with a flute of Champagne.

Sit back and enjoy afternoon tea on the sea-view terrace or veranda, where lavish tea parties have been thrown for almost a century. When storms lash the rugged coast, bag a window seat inside, or lounge in a sofa and toast your toes by the fire. At The Headland we serve up the finest cream tea in the perfect venue for every season.

Our full menu is served in The Terrace from 12.00-3.00pm and 6.00-9.30pm, please ask one of the team if you wish to see a menu.

Please don't forget to give your number plate to a member of staff upon arrival.

ABOUT TREGOTHNAN TEA

Home to the Boscawen family, the private estate has persevered in pioneering botanical firsts since 1334. Inspired by a tradition stretching back generations, they began supplying England's first and only tea in 2005, creating inimitable Britishness.

As well as growing English tea and a vast range of delicious herbal infusions, a diversity of lands also allows us to produce sustainable coppiced charcoal, Cornish Manuka and wildflower honeys, and their fine and rare Kea plum jam. Beautifully British flowers from the Tregothnan estate and surrounding lands are cut for their range of hand-tied seasonal English bouquets. The 'Cornishness' of the ultimate cream tea is also recognised far and wide.
